

Positive Behavior Support Intensives Training Series

(PBS INTENSIVES)

Positive Behavior Support (PBS) is an evidence-based and system-wide approach for respectful, supportive, and effective ways to help people make positive changes in their lives. You are invited to attend the Applying Positive Behavior Support Intensives in Minnesota Human Service Settings sequence of training. This series includes six days of training focused on the use of Positive Behavior Support as part of the continuum of positive support practices. Attendees will learn about the implementation of Positive Behavior Support in community settings, to support the needs of people with developmental or intellectual disabilities, with a primary focus on supporting people at the targeted (Tier 2) and intensive (Tier 3) level of support.

Audience

The trainings are intended for PBS Facilitators at organizations participating in the DHS cohort model but are also open to the public for providers who have introductory level knowledge of or experience with Positive Behavior Support. Although all are welcome, the training series will likely be most relevant for professionals and teams who support adults and children with IDD across various settings (e.g., counties, provider organizations, mental health services).

Registration

These events are no cost to attendees, but prior registration is required. In order to provide an optimal learning experience for attendees, registration will close at 100 registrants. Certificates of attendance will be provided for verified attendees at the close of the full six-day training series. CEUs are not offered for this training series.

Training Days and Topics

This series is cumulative, therefore attendance at all six sessions is encouraged; however, it is not required to attend all sessions to register for the training series.

Each training day runs from 9:30am - 3:30pm with a midday break for lunch
